Life and Death on Brougham Street

Sunday, March 18 at 2.00 pm

Take a stroll along Brougham Street with Alan Olliver and Jim Harper and hear about some of the dramas and daily life of past times. After Alan and Jim's tales of social life, murders, tram crashes, businesses and people, Brougham Street will never be the same!

Meet outside St Joseph's Church on Brougham Street (across the other side of Ellice Street) at 2.00 pm. Friends welcome.

The tour will be followed by afternoon tea at the Harper's, so please RSVP to 385 8377 if you'll be joining us.

Circa 1908. A lady shopper's gig at Austin Street. Horace Hawker's father stands, hands clasped behind back. The gig's owner sits on a bentwood chair in the shop doorway and is discernible by her white gloves.
